

What is Exilis Elite Body?

Exilis Elite Body is an FDA-approved, non-invasive treatment designed to safely and effectively tighten loose skin by promoting collagen stimulation. This treatment is ideal for patients who are not significantly overweight, as it helps firm sagging skin and reduces unwanted bulges that are difficult to lose through diet and exercise alone.

Exilis Elite Body also reduces stubborn fat in desired areas by targeting the fat tissues right above the muscles using precise temperature control. This results in your body's natural metabolic system taking over to flush out the excreted fat content. As the fat cell's volume decreases, the fat layer is reduced.

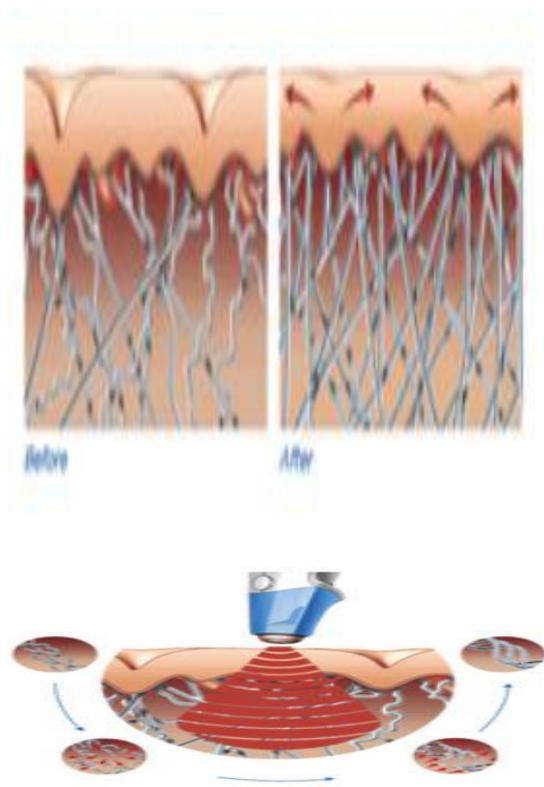

How Does Exilis Elite Work?

Exilis Elite Body utilises a computer-controlled, temperature monitoring device to deliver radio frequency (RF) energy over the treatment area. RF energy heats the deep tissue, which results in collagen remodelling. The triple-helix structure of collagen is altered by the heat, causing it to unravel. Over time, the natural healing process stimulates fibroblasts to produce new collagen fibres.

By disrupting the collagen fibres, it stimulates the growth and production of collagen, causing your skin laxity and texture to improve. This process of collagen stimulation also helps firm sagging skin and tighten loose skin while reducing the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles. Exilis Elite rejuvenates the skin, resulting in smoother skin and a more youthful appearance over time.

During the treatment, you will feel a warm, but tolerable sensation. Exilis Elite uses a “layering” cooling technique to protect the skin while delivering RF energy to various depths in the skin tissue. The device comes with a built-in thermometer, allowing our doctors to precisely control the level of heat, which protects your skin from damage. Changes in cooling and heating during the treatment allow tissues to be heated all the way down to the subcutaneous tissue from the superficial layer of the skin.
